FLASHBACK 1976: We wonder what Roddy Piper says to Eddy and Chavo Guerrero Jr. when he sees them backstage at WCW events? It was Chavo Guerrero Sr. who beat Piper in a hair vs. hair match at the Olympic Auditorium all those years ago. Guerrero's second, Butcher Vachon, seems a bit upset that "The Rowdy Scot" still has more hair than he does!

THE 10 BIGGEST NEWS STORIES OF 1999

1. Owen Hart's Death At Over The Edge

The name Owen Hart became known around the world on May 23, 1999. Unfortunately for the Hart family, it had nothing to do with his in-ring exploits or his enormous talent. Following that dark night in Kansas City, Missouri, Owen's name was forever linked with tragedy.

Hart, dressed as The Blue Blazer, was attempting a heroic descent into the ring prior to his match against WWF Intercontinental champion The Godfather at the Over the Edge pay-per-view at Kemper Arena. Somehow, Hart's cable released, sending him crashing into a turnbuckle 70 feet below.

Home viewers of Over the Edge didn't see the accident. Vignettes of Hart's Blue Blazer character were being shown to the PPV audience. "It looked like a doll," said WWF fan Randy Hill. "But we could see by the reaction of the WWF people that it wasn't a stunt." Hart died shortly after falling.

PWI named Hart as the recipient of the 1999 Editors' Award. Hart's widow, Martha, said she would be proud to hang the plaque next to Owen's 1987 Rookie of the Year Award.

Owen Hart is survived by Martha and two young children, his son, Oje, and daughter, Athena.

2. Vince Russo And Ed Ferrara Leave The WWF For WCW

Vince Russo notified his boss, Vince McMahon, via telephone of his intention to leave the WWF and accept a position as WCW's creative director on October 3. As the WWF's head television writer, Russo incorporated adult-oriented storylines into programs and pay-per-views and helped the federation reclaim its spot as the number-one promotion in North America.

"For the last 2 1/2, three years, I've given my blood, sweat, and tears to the WWF and helped lift them from a 1.0 to a 7.0 [in the Nielsen ratings] and helped Vince McMahon take his company public," Russo told PWI. "It has been an exhausting and emotionally draining experience. At this point, I don't think I have anything left to give them."

When Turner Sports fired WCW President Eric Bischoff and promoted Bill Busch to executive vice president, Russo saw his opportunity to make the jump, and he took it, bringing with him Ed Ferrara, and later Bill Banks and Terry Taylor—other members of the WWF creative team.

Reinvented as the Powers-That-Be, Russo and his team infused WCW with more sex and more story, but less wrestling. As of December 27, Raw's numbers still doubled Nitro's.

3. Eric Bischoff Ousted As WCW President

Ratings for Monday Nitro had dropped to the 2.5 range, pay-per-view buy rates were dropping, and arena attendance was plummeting fast. Executives of Time Warner, WCW's parent company, took drastic action on September 10 by dismissing the man who had tried to run Vince McMahon and the WWF out of business: WCW President Eric Bischoff.

As a WCW broadcaster for several years, Bischoff took notes and came up with ideas that could, theoretically, place the federation on equal par with McMahon's WWF. When Bischoff finally gained power, it was his idea to hire Hulk Hogan and put Nitro in a head-to-head war with the established Raw program. That move forced McMahon to upgrade Raw, and the Monday night war helped make wrestling the mainstream phenomenon it is today.

The dissolution of the New World Order, political deadlock behind the scenes, and stale storylines combined to sink WCW's popularity. Bischoff was also criticized for going over budget with extravagant wrestler salaries and for making use of too many celebrities.

Despite his removal from the WCW presidency, Bischoff remains an employee of Time Warner. It remains uncertain what his next assignment will be.

4. ECW Secures A National Cable Contract

Extreme Championship Wrestling established the Big Three by striking a three-year deal with The Nashville Network. ECW's one-hour program began airing on TNN on August 27, but the agreement goes well beyond the TV show. TNN will share revenue in all ECW projects, including home video, CD compilations, and action figures.

"Wrestling makes extremely popular television, particularly among teens and young male viewers," said TNN President David Hall. "We estimate that nearly 30 million homes tune in to wrestling each month. With wrestling, TNN can greatly expand the teen and young male audience already attracted to our Friday night sports-based entertainment lineup."

ECW's weekly show is sandwiched between Motor Madness and Rollerjam. One reason for introducing ECW was to help the sagging ratings of both programs. ECW's ratings continue to be respectable (averaging about a 1.0), but there's little evidence it's helping the rest of the "Friday Night Thrill Zone."

The national cable contract helped ECW attain a long-time goal: world title recognition from PWI.

5. Smackdown Added To UPN Schedule

Smackdown became the first weekly network wrestling program of the modern era when it began airing on UPN in the fall. The WWF show has put UPN in the thick of the ratings chase on Thursday nights, sometimes edging out some of the other networks. It was another step in the WWF's strategy to make sports entertainment part of the mainstream.

The addition of Smackdown has its pitfalls, however. It led to major burnout for television writers Vince Russo and Ed Ferrara, who jumped to WCW. More demands have been placed on WWF stars. Others feared Smackdown would make Raw vulnerable to WCW's Nitro on Monday nights.

So far, though, Smackdown has been worth the extra effort. It continues Raw storylines smoothly and pulls ratings between 4.0 and 5.0. For a struggling network like UPN, the popularity of Smackdown is a blessing.

The WWF's network programs during the 1980s, Saturday Night's Main Event and The Main Event, were monthly or semi-annual specials that aired on NBC.

6. Darren Drozdov Paralyzed

In some ways, the in-ring accident of Darren Drozdov on October 5 aroused more scrutiny than the death of Owen Hart. That's because it wasn't a freak occurrence, such as a cable snapping in mid-fall. Instead, it brought the sport itself into question when Droz was seriously injured by a fairly ordinary wrestling move.

It happened at a taping of Smackdown at the Nassau Coliseum in Uniondale, New York. D-Lo Brown was attempting a running Liger bomb when his opponent, Drozdov, landed awkwardly on his neck. Referee Teddy Long immediately stopped the match, and EMTs came to Drozdov's aid. Paralyzed from the waist down, Drozdov was rushed to a local hospital.

Later, he underwent surgery to remove two disks causing pressure on his neck. Surgeons extracted a piece of his pelvis to replace the disks, and a plate and screws were inserted to stabilize his neck.

Although recovery has been slow and painful for Drozdov, there's hope he will walk again.

7. The WWF Goes Public

Titan Sports changed its name to World Wrestling Federation Entertainment Inc. and offered a minority stake in its company this fall. Approximately 20 percent of its shares was made available to public investors on the Nasdaq Stock Market, an exchange best known for its wide variety of high-tech stocks.

The McMahons retain voting power through ownership of class B stock, which gives them 10 votes per share. Owners of class A stock (general investors) are entitled to one vote per share. According to the initial public offering with the U.S. Securities & Exchange Commission, the WWF emerged from a $6.5-million debt to earn $251-million in revenue and $56-million in profit between May 1, 1998, and April 30, 1999.

The WWF intends to use proceeds from the stock sales to enhance television production, advance Internet facilities, and launch its own record label. It has already opened a theme restaurant in New York's Times Square.

The WWF going public made national headlines along with Martha Stewart, whose company went public on the same day.

8. Sponsors Pull Ads From WWF Programs

The Parents Television Council, a watchdog group headed by L. Brent Bozell III, launched a letter-writing campaign aimed at driving the WWF from the public airwaves. Since networks are part of the broadcast spectrum governed by the taxpayer-funded FCC, the organization targeted UPN's Smackdown in particular.

PTC members sent letters to sponsors, encouraging them to discontinue their support of WWF programs. Advertisers such as Coca-Cola, AT&T, Mars, the Coast Guard, and the Army all complied. The WWF quickly found replacement advertisers at even higher rates.

Fearing a public backlash, the WWF agreed to tone down its programming. Smackdown's TV-

14 designation was changed to a TV-PG. WWF stars were asked to stop using foul language so liberally, making so many sexual gestures, and referring to drugs.

"As good business people, we are willing to initiate change," said Jim Byrne, WWF senior vice president of marketing.

9. Lawsuits Plague The WWF

Now that the WWF is earning more money than ever, maybe it could invest in a WWF Court TV channel. Considering the number of lawsuits that faced the federation in 1999, there would be plenty of programming available.

In June, Rena Mero (Sable) filed a $110-million lawsuit against the WWF, claiming negligence, breach of contract, unfair trade practices, and intentional infliction of emotional distress. Mero claimed she was stripped of the women's title for refusing to participate in a storyline in which her breasts would be exposed on cable television. Mero settled out of court for an undisclosed sum, but did not win rights to the Sable trademark.

Less than two weeks later, Martha Hart, the widow of Owen Hart, filed a wrongful death claim on behalf of herself, the Hart children, and Owen's parents against Vince and Linda McMahon, Titan Sports, Amspec Inc., Lewmar Ltd., Lewmar Marine Inc., Lift-All Ltd, various harness operators, and the city of Kansas City, Missouri. That case is ongoing.

That same week, Kuwaiti talk show host Bassam Al Othman—who was attacked by Vader during an April 1997 interview—sued the WWF for using the video clip of the incident on its programs and during Vader's entrances. Later in the year, Nicole Bass filed a $120-million lawsuit, claiming she was sexually harassed by WWF employees and was intentionally injured in the ring (by a particularly sturdy guitar) for resisting the advances.

Lawsuits by WCW, High Road Productions (makers of Hitman Hart: Wrestling With Shadows, The Ultimate Warrior, and Demolition) are still pending.

10. Chyna Becomes First Female To Win I-C Belt

She stood in Triple-H's shadow for years and was conspicuous by her absence in the WWF's women's division. Chyna had bigger plans in mind. She was going to cement her place in wrestling history by becoming the first woman to win a major male singles championship.

Chyna attempted to become the top contender to the WWF World title in order to gain a shot at champ Steve Austin at SummerSlam '99. She lost out to Triple-H and Mankind, but she did secure a title match with male chauvinist and Intercontinental champion Jeff Jarrett for No Mercy.

Overcoming a heinous attack by Jarrett a week prior, Chyna defeated Jarrett for the I-C title on October 17 in Cleveland, Ohio. Appropriately, the bout was a "Good Housekeeping" match, which allowed the participants to use household appliances against each other.

1999: THE YEAR IN WRESTLING

In this extended section, we provide a comprehensive overview of the significant events of the year just passed. Title changes can be found in the section beginning on page 74. For 1999 obituaries, please turn to page 142.

January 1: Eddy Guerrero is involved in a serious car crash in Florida. He suffers a broken hip and a punctured liver. The injuries aren't considered career-threatening, and he returns to action several months later.

January 4: Ric Flair gains the WCW presidency by defeating Eric Bischoff. According to a pre-match stipulation, Flair would have been forced to retire if he lost ... Kevin Nash allows Hollywood Hogan to pin him for his fifth WCW World title, setting up the short-lived reunion of the New World Order.

January 10: Taz effectively ends the Shane Douglas era in ECW by defeating "The Franchise" for the heavyweight title at Guilty as Charged in Kissimmee, Florida. Douglas had briefly escaped Taz' katahajimi, but Taz gained hold again and choked him out ... Yoshihiro Tajiri beats Super Crazy with a dragon suplex in their first high-profile encounter.

January 12: Three-time former WWF World champ Shawn Michaels undergoes surgery to repair several herniated discs in his back. Acting upon his doctor's advice, Michaels later announces his retirement.

January 13: The A&E Network's Biography of Andre the Giant draws the highest ratings in the program's 12-year history, with 3.5 million viewers. The documentary includes interviews of Andre's childhood friends, wrestling colleagues, and acquaintances in later years.

January 16: Public Enemy, once hardcore icons, receive a cool reception upon their return to the ECW Arena in Philadelphia. Buh Buh Ray Dudley criticizes PE's lackluster, three-year stint in WCW. Public Enemy later jumps to the WWF, but are no more successful.

January 17: David Flair shocks the wrestling world by pinning Curt Hennig at Souled Out. The match features David and his father, Ric, against Hennig and Barry Windham. After the Flairs' victory, Hollywood Hogan whips David with a weight-lifting belt and spray-paints the letters "E-Z-E," an obvious reference to Eric Bischoff ... Perry Saturn is forced to wear a dress for 90 days following a loss to Chris Jericho. Strangely enough, Saturn wears the dress well beyond the stipulated period.

January 18: David Flair embarrasses Eric Bischoff by defeating him in a hair vs. hair match. The tape replay shows referee Randy Anderson handing Flair a roll of quarters.

The NWO: Reunited to cause havoc

David's father, Ric, takes pleasure in shaving Bischoff's hair, revealing ugly gray roots underneath.

January 19: Former Japanese star Yoshino Sato dies. (See page 153).

January 22: Toshiaki Kawada breaks his right arm, but rallies to win the All-Japan Triple Crown from Mitsuharu Misawa in Osaka. Kawada later relinquishes the Triple Crown due to his injury.

January 24: The Rock defeats Mankind in an "I quit" match for his second WWF World title at the Royal Rumble. Later, it is discovered that the words "I quit" were dubbed into the sound system from a prematch Mankind interview ... Vince McMahon earns a WWF World title shot by eliminating Steve Austin in the Royal Rumble event. McMahon survives 28 other competitors, including Chyna.

January 26: Mankind ends The Rock's two-day reign as WWF champ by defeating him in the empty Tucson Convention Center. The combatants fight along the steps, in and out of several offices, through the cafeteria, and in the arena's loading area. There, Mankind regains the belt by using a forklift to lower a pallet of beer kegs onto The Rock. The match, dubbed Halftime Heat, airs during halftime of Super Bowl XXXIII.

January 31: Shohei Baba dies. (See page 153).

February 5: Three-time former WWF champ Bob Backlund announces he will run for the First District Congressional seat of Connecticut in 2000.

February 8: With the help of Mad TV comedian Will Sasso, Roddy Piper wins the U.S. title again—15 years after his previous reign.

February 14: Steve Austin brutalizes and bloodies WWF owner Vince McMahon by throwing him down 15 feet through the Spanish announcers' table and pummeling him inside a steel cage. Former WCW World champion Paul Wight makes his WWF debut by cutting through the mat canvas and slinging Austin through the cage and onto the floor, inadvertently giving Austin the victory. McMahon suffers a broken tailbone, among other injuries ... Masa Saito ends his 34-year career with a match in Tokyo. Saito won the WWF tag team title twice with Mr. Fuji in the early 1980s and was AWA World champion for two months in 1990.

February 19: During an appearance on The Tonight Show, Bill Goldberg offers to put up $100,000 to secure a bout against Steve Austin. He also offers to meet Austin in an alley. Three days later, while on Howard Stern's radio show, Austin says that they can have a match "when Goldberg makes it to the big leagues."

February 20: All-Japan star Tomomi "Jumbo" Tsuruta announces his retirement after a 27-year career. He defeated Nick Bockwinkel for the AWA World title in 1984.

February 21: David Flair shocks his father with a taser at SuperBrawl IX, giving WCW champ Hollywood Hogan a chance to recover and pin Ric Flair ... Rey Misterio Jr. loses his mask in a stipulation match pitting he and Konnan against Kevin Nash and Scott Hall (subbing for Lex Luger). At stake for Hall and Nash was Elizabeth's hair.

February 23: The Renegade dies. See page (153).

February 26: Steve Austin guest stars on CBS' Nash Bridges. The program beats the second hour of The Daytime Soap Opera Awards on NBC and ABC's 20/20 in the ratings.

February 27: The East Coast Wrestling Association's Third Annual Super 8 Tournament climaxes with a bout between Steve Bradley and Christopher Daniels in Wilmington, Delaware. Bradley reverses the momentum of a Daniels bodypress for the victory.

March 6: Less than six months after being released by the WWF, Vader defeats Akira Tave in 12:51 for the vacant All-Japan Triple Crown in Tokyo. Former champ Toshiaki Kawada was forced to vacate the titles due to a broken arm he suffered during his Triple Crown victory over Mitsuharu Misawa on January 22.

March 14: Ric Flair becomes a 14-time world champion and "permanent president" of WCW by virtue of his win over Hollywood Hogan at Uncensored. It becomes apparent early in the match that referee Charles Robinson's is cheating for Flair when he refuses to call for the bell when the "Nature Boy" is bleeding profusely in the first-blood, barbed-wire cage match. He also refuses to count a Hogan pin over Flair at 7:40. Arn Anderson's tire iron assists Flair in his victory ... Anderson's tire iron also helps Chris Benoit and Dean Malenko beat Curt Hennig and Barry Windham for the World tag team title, giving The Four Horsemen a monopoly over WCW's World championships ... In a match with former NWA champ Dory Funk Jr. serving as special referee, Naoya Ogawa ends Dan Severn's four-year NWA championship reign when Severn taps out to his SOS finisher at the Yokohama Arena in Japan.

March 21: ECW champion Taz chokes out long-time rival Sabu with the katahajimi at Living Dangerously in Asbury Park, New Jersey, at the 18:27 mark ... Jerry Lynn turns down the ECW TV title after referee John Finnegan awards him a decision victory over champion Rob Van Dam after the 20-minute time-limit elapses. The match resumes and Van Dam wins with a frog splash in overtime.

March 28: Steve Austin wins his third WWF World title by defeating The Rock in 16:50 at WrestleMania XV in Philadelphia. Austin overcomes two Rock bottons en route to victory ... At the same PPV, Triple-H costs DX pal X-Pac his match against European champion Shane McMahon. HHH later announces his affiliation with The Corporation ... Butterbean scores a devastating knockout of Bart Gunn in 35 seconds in a Brawl for All.

March 29: Bret Hart challenges Bill Goldberg in Toronto, Ontario. Goldberg rushes into the ring and spears Hart. Hart feigns injury and then gets up and reveals a metal plate under his hockey jersey. He then stuns the world with this announcement: "Hey, WCW, Eric Bischoff, I quit!" ... WCW matchmaker Kevin Sullivan collapses at the same Nitro card and goes into convulsions. Paramedics note that Sullivan's heart stopped several times although he didn't suffer a heart attack. The cause of the seizure is unknown, but EMTs suspect Sullivan may have had a negative reaction to prescription drug interactions.

April 9: Japanese woman wrestler Emiko Kado dies. (See page 153).

April 10: The Tokyo Dome—packed with 63,000 fans—is the scene for an electrified explosive barbed-wire match between Masa Chono and Atsushi Onita. Chono, who enters the arena in a U.S. Army tank, is the first to touch the dynamite- and barbed-wire-laden ropes, but makes sure Onita does the same. At one point, the two wrestlers and referee Mr. Unno become tangled in the exploding ropes and are knocked unconscious. The contest is later ruled a draw.

April 11: "Diamond" Dallas Page pins Ric Flair in a four-way match also including Hollywood Hogan and Sting to win the WCW World title at Spring Stampede. A top-roped elbowdrop from special referee Randy Savage sets up Flair for the pin. Hogan is eliminated early and sidelined with a knee injury after Page locks him in a figure-four leglock around the ringpost ... Scott Steiner strikes Booker T in the face with a foreign object to win the U.S. championship in a tournament final on the same card.

April 20: Former WCW U.S. and WWF Intercontinental champ Rick Rude dies. (See page 153.)

April 25: WWF World champion Steve Austin defeats The Rock at Backlash in Providence, Rhode Island. Vince McMahon kayos his son, Shane, who, as special referee, is cheating for The Rock. Vince also returns Austin's customized smoking-skulls title belt, which had been stolen by the McMahons several months earlier.

April 26: Sting beats Dallas Page for his sixth NWA/WCW World title on Nitro, airing from Fargo, North Dakota. Page regains the belt in a four-way match, which also involves Bill Goldberg and Kevin Nash, 90 minutes later ... On Raw, Shane McMahon fires The Rock from The Corporation.

April 29: The WWF airs a special, titled Smackdown, on UPN. The program scores a 5.8 rating, beating out ABC and WB programming for the 8 p.m. time slot.

May 2: Mitsuharu Misawa beats Vader for his fifth All-Japan Triple Crown at the Giant Baba Memorial Show held at the Tokyo Dome ... Bruno Sammartino, Gene Kiniski, The Destroyer, and Lord James Blears eulogize Baba on the same card. Fans stand for the entire ceremony.

May 4: Former wrestler Jos LeDuc dies. (See page 153.)

May 9: Kevin Nash defeats Dallas Page for his second WCW World title at Slamboree in St.

Louis. Randy Savage interferes on Page's behalf, but Eric Bischoff orders the match to continue. Nash uses a power bomb to gain the victory.

May 10: Although WWF women's champion Sable strips Debra first in their evening gown match, Commissioner Shawn Michaels rules that the woman who got stripped should be the winner. He awards Debra the title. Events surrounding that incident are noted in Rena Mero's future lawsuit against the WWF ... Jerry Brisco and Pat Patterson come out of retirement to beat Pete Gas and Rodney of The Mean Street Posse in a loser-leaves-the-federation match. The Posse's exile is short-lived.

May 15: At the Break the Barrier independent card held in Philadelphia, Shane Douglas signals his departure from ECW with these comments: "Since the fans pay to see the wrestlers, it's the wrestlers who should see the money. Paul Heyman can't accuse Shane Douglas of no-showing Hardcore Heaven (the ECW PPV scheduled for the next evening), because I'm not contractually bound to be there." Rumors indicate Douglas is being courted by the WWF, but he winds up in WCW.

May 16: ECW champion Taz pulls a double at Hardcore Heaven by defeating Chris Candido in less than a minute and then Buh Buh Ray Dudley later in the night ... Sid Vicious returns to ECW and beats Justin Credible by disqualification when Lance Storm interferes. Vicious power-bombs Credible, Storm, and Judge Jeff Jones, then fends off an attack from Sabu ... WWF World champion Steve Austin beats The Undertaker and Triple-H in a three-way match at Rebellion, held at England's Manchester MEN Arena.

May 17: Charles Robinson suffers a collapsed lung when Randy Savage hits him with a top-roped elbowdrop. Robinson and Ric Flair were involved in a mixed tag team match against Savage and Madusa.

May 23: WWF superstar Owen Hart dies. (See page 153.)

in North Richland Hills. Both men are counted out at the 13-minute mark. Fans demand an extra five minutes, but the time limit expires.

June 6: Chyna becomes the first female to qualify for the annual King of the Ring tournament by defeating Val Venis. It is announced that Chyna will face former DX comrade Jesse James in the first round.

June 7: Rena Mero (Sable) files a $110-million lawsuit against the WWF, claiming negligence, breach of contract, unfair trade practices, and intentional infliction of emotional distress. Mero states she was stripped of the women's title for refusing to expose her breasts on cable-TV. "Professional wrestling has become increasingly obscene, titillating, vulgar, and unsafe," the lawsuit charges. "[The WWF] controls its performers through a carefully designed program of intimidation and humiliation—including scripted sexual provocation."

June 8: Linda and Stephanie McMahon, angered at being duped by Vince and Shane in their "greater power" conspiracy, help elect Steve Austin the new chief executive officer of the WWF.

June 10: Billy Black and Vic Roze attack NWA Georgia promoter Bill Behrens and wrestler T.J. Gray in Loganville. Upon entering the Georgia Belle Flea Market, Black hits Behrens from behind in the ring, knocking him out. Black and Roze order everyone to leave the ring, but Gray—who owns the ring—refuses. Black and Roze go after Gray until wrestlers run to the rescue. Black and Roze speed away in separate vehicles. They are apprehended and charged with simple battery. Behrens later says Black had been upset with him over a perceived slight.

June 11: Kenta Kobashi suffers a broken nose during his match against All-Japan Triple Crown champion Mitsuharu Misawa in Tokyo, Japan. It is announced Kobashi will be out for at least a month.

June 13: Sid Vicious makes a surprise return to WCW by interrupting a match between World champion Kevin Nash and Randy Savage at the Great American Bash in Baltimore. He power-bombs Nash and aligns himself with Savage. Nash wins by disqualification ... On the same card, Rick and Scott Steiner hit new lows by sacking Doberman pinschers on Sting.

June 14: The Kansas City Police Department begins a criminal investigation into Owen Hart's death at Kemper Arena. Major Gregory Mills says the investigation isn't centered on a particular suspect, but rather the circumstances of the tragedy ... WCW President Ric Flair appoints Roddy Piper as his vice president. Flair and Arn Anderson helped Piper in a three-on-one attack on Buff Bagwell the night before.

June 21: Two more high-profile lawsuits are filed against the WWF. Martha Hart, Owen Hart's widow, files a wrongful death claim on behalf of herself, the two Hart children, and Owen's parents against Vince and Linda McMahon, Titan Sports, Amspec Inc., Lewmar Ltd., Lewmar Marine Ltd., Lift-All Ltd. (the manufacturers and installers of the harness system used to lower Owen into the ring), various harness operators, and the city of Kansas City, Missouri (which owns Kemper Arena). Bassam Al Othman, the Kuwaiti talk show host attacked by Vader in April 1997, files a $1-million lawsuit against the WWF for its unauthorized use of the video detailing the incident. The WWF had used the clip in promotional packages about Vader and during the "Mastadon's" ring entrances ... Vince McMahon fires Big Bossman from the Corporate Ministry when he fails to beat Steve Austin in Memphis.

June 27: Vince and Shane McMahon retain ownership of the WWF by defeating Steve Austin in a ladder match at the King of the Ring in Greensboro, North Carolina. In accordance with prematch stipulations, Austin loses his position as chief executive officer of the WWF. The object of the match was to climb a ladder and grab a briefcase dangling from the ceiling. Whenever Austin reached for the briefcase, it was mysteriously raised ... Billy Gunn defeats X-Pac to become the King of the Ring. Gunn's only legitimate victory in the entire tourney is over X-Pac, who was hindered by a stinger he suffered against Bob Holly in the first round.

June 28: Former WWF junior heavyweight champ Tatsumi Fujinami is named president of New Japan Pro Wrestling. The previous president, Seiji Sakaguchi, assumes the vacant chairman post. Sakaguchi and long-time matchmaker Riki Choshu thought it was time to give control to a younger leader. Fujinami announces his desire to organize a joint card among New Japan, All-Japan, and the Universal Fighting Arts Organization ... Steve Austin regains the WWF World title from The Undertaker in Charlotte, North Carolina.

July 1: Chris Jericho signs a multiyear deal with the WWF and is expected to make his debut after his WCW contract expires on July 27. "Jericho's debut has not been finalized, but Chris' creative game plan has been discussed, in the advent that he would sign, for months," says Jim Ross, the WWF's vice president of talent relations. Jericho turned down a lucrative deal with WCW in exchange for more creative control in the WWF.

July 5: Bret Hart returns to WCW for the first time since the death of his younger brother Owen. He speaks frankly to the Nitro audience about Owen and the future of his own career. Hart says he's still uncertain whether to become an active wrestler again.

July 6: PWI grants world title status to ECW following the promotion's deal with The Nashville Network to begin airing weekly programs on August 27. The one-hour program is scheduled to air Friday nights at 8 p.m., between Motor Madness and Rollerjam, with TNN getting a share in the revenue of all ECW ventures. "In terms of match quality, pay-per-views, competition, and longevity, ECW had already earned world title status," comments PWI Publisher Stu Saks. "We were just waiting for them to establish a national presence, and with the TNN deal, they have" ... The WWF confirms that Vince McMahon suffered a cracked tailbone during the Fourth of July holiday weekend in Greenwich, Connecticut. A motorist backed out of a driveway and into McMahon, who was riding his motorcycle. McMahon landed flat on his back 30 feet from the scene.

July 11: Randy Savage pins Kevin Nash in a tag team match to win his fourth WCW World title at Bash at the Beach in Fort Lauderdale, Florida. According to a prematch stipulation, Savage's partner, Sid Vicious, and even Nash's partner, Sting, were eligible to pin "Big Sexy" during the contest.

July 12: WWF commentator and former AWA World champion Jerry Lawler announces his candidacy for the mayor's office in Memphis. "I'm running because I think [the people of Memphis] are looking at me as someone who's certainly not a politician, but a lifelong resident of Memphis and as someone who has a love of this city," Lawler explains to the Commercial Appeal. "The King" intends to continue his announcing duties with the WWF while pursuing his political career ... Hollywood Hogan defeats Randy Savage for his sixth WCW World title during a Nitro broadcast. Sid Vicious on Savage's behalf as Hogan pins Savage, but Kevin Nash power-bombs Savage, handing Hogan the WCW belt a second time. Nash demands a shot at Hogan's newly won title.

July 18: ECW World champion Taz defeats Yoshihiro Tajiri at Heatwave in Dayton, Ohio ... Spike Dudley and Mahoney beat Buh Buh Ray and D-Von Dudley for the ECW World tag team title on the same card. The Dudleys have the last laugh, however, as they slam Spike and Mahoney through two flaming tables. New Jack chases the Dudleys away.

July 19: Shane Douglas, after a falling-out with ECW, ends months of speculation by appearing in WCW rather than the WWF. He immediately forms The Revolution, with Chris Benoit, Dean Malenko, and Perry Saturn as members. Douglas claims WCW has held these men down long enough and that his group is going to change the pecking order in the federation ... Sting defeats Ric Flair to gain control of the WCW presidency, due to a prematch stipulation. Sting refuses to become president himself, but quietly searches for a successor. Eventually, WCW takes the "presidential title" out of circulation.

July 24: Rick Justice defends the Tri-Star title four times in one card. He beats Tank Norton, Jimmy Sharpe, and Bobby Hayes. He loses the belt to Hayes in a rematch later in the evening.

July 25: WWF World champion Steve Austin defeats The Undertaker in a first-blood "End Of An Era" match at Fully Loaded in Buffalo, New York. Due to a prematch stipulation, Vince McMahon is banned from appearing on WWF television. If Austin had lost, he would have lost the championship and surrendered all future title shots.

July 25: WCW hardcore champion Dave Finlay is sidelined for several months after fragments from a smashed table sever a nerve below his left knee in a defense against Brian Knobs.

July 26: During an impromptu brawl with Triple-H, WWF World champion Steve Austin suffers a twisted knee and strained ligaments. When Triple-H attacked announcer Jim Ross, who had questioned Helmsley's ability to beat Austin at SummerSlam, "Stone-Cold" ran to J.R.'s rescue. Austin didn't return to action until SummerSlam, one month later ... WCW World champion Hollywood Hogan hyperextends his knee when Sid Vicious executes a fall-away slam in a match pitting Hogan and Sting vs. Vicious and Kevin Nash. Hogan says he'll be ready to defend the title against Kevin Nash three weeks later at Road Wild.

July 29: Mankind returns to action, following six weeks recovering from knee surgery, as part of a six-man tag team match at the Baltimore Arena. Substituting for Steve Austin, Mankind helps Kane and X-Pac defeat The Undertaker, Triple-H, and Paul Wight.

July 30: The "Curtis Comes Home" benefit show takes place at the Ice Gardens in Rostraver, Pennsylvania, in honor of Mark Curtis (Brian Hildebrand), who is fighting stomach cancer. When special referee

Shane Douglas: WCW revolutionary

Mankind tries to maintain control by applying mandible claws to both Al Snow and D-Lo Brown. Curtis enters the ring and makes a three-count, declaring Mankind the winner of the bout.

July 31: Florida independent wrestler Yvel Lovett dies (See page 153) ... Kamala, in his debut at ECW Arena, defeats David Cash with a body-splash.

August 7: Lord Jonathan Boyd dies (See page 153).

August 9: The WWF files with the Securities & Exchange Commission for an initial public offering of stock. Titan Sports' name is changed to World Wrestling Federation Entertainment Inc. ... Chris Jericho debuts in the WWF, revealing himself as the force behind the millennium countdown clock promos airing during recent weeks. He refers to his new nickname, Y2J.

Mankind & Jesse Ventura: SummerSlam favorites

August 14: Kevin Nash loses a retirement match to WCW World champion Hollywood Hogan at Road Wild in Sturgis, South Dakota. Nash almost wins with a power bomb, but Hogan rallies with a boot to the face and legdrop for the pin ... Randy Savage beats Dennis Rodman after Gorgeous George drops the "Worm" with a low blow. At one point, Savage forces Rodman into a Port-O-Pot and pushes it over. Five referees and one ringside photographer are injured during the contest.

August 19: Ann Laverne dies. (See page 153).

August 20: Bret Hart returns to action for the first time since the death of his brother, Owen. He wrestles WCW World champion Hulk Hogan to a no-contest at the Cow Palace in San Francisco.

August 22: Mankind uses a double-arm DDT to pin Steve Austin for his third WWF World title in a three-way match at SummerSlam in Minneapolis, Minnesota. Earlier, referee Jesse Ventura refuses to count a pin of Mankind by the third participant, Triple-H, because of Chyna's interference ... On the same PPV, Jeff Jarrett beats D-Lo Brown for the Intercontinental and European championships.

August 23: Triple-H wins the WWF World title in Ames, Iowa, ending Mankind's one-day reign ... Jeff Jarrett gives his newly won European title to Mark Henry, whose interference enabled Jarrett to beat D-Lo Brown for the Intercontinental and European titles the previous night.

August 26: Raven returns to ECW by rescuing Tommy Dreamer and beating Buh Buh Ray and D-Von Dudley for the World tag team title. The victory by Raven and Dreamer prevents the Dudleys from taking the ECW tag belts to the WWF.

August 27: ECW's one-hour show premieres on The Nashville Network. The program features TV champion Rob Van Dam's win over Jerry Lynn at Hardcore Heaven, a summary of ECW history, and clips of superstars who previously passed through the federation. The show's Nielsen rating is 0.94.

August 28: IWGP champion The Great Muta (Keiji Muto) defeats The Great Nita (Atsushi Onita's mocking alter-ego) in a no-rope barbed-wire barricade-mat electric-mine double-hell death match at Jinju Stadium in Tokyo. The two combatants fought for a large knife, in addition to throwing each other onto barbed wire and deadly electric mines in front of 48,000 fans. Muta injured Nita and pinned him after 13 minutes of action.

August 30: Raw defeats Nitro, 4.2 to 4.0, in the Monday night ratings—despite the fact Nitro airs at 11 p.m. EDT instead of its usual 9 p.m. time slot. Raw had been pre-empted by USA's coverage of the U.S. Open.

September 8: Brian Hildebrand (Mark Curtis) dies. (See page 153).

September 10: Time Warner executives remove WCW President Eric Bischoff from office and promote Bill Busch to executive vice president. TV ratings, PPV buy rates, and arena attendance had been dropping.

September 12: Sting ends 13 years of goodwill with his fans by walloping Hulk Hogan with a bat to win his seventh NWA/WCW World title at Fall Brawl in Winston-Salem, North Carolina. Lex Luger had brought the bat to ringside.

September 13: ECW World champion Taz agrees to a contract with the WWF.

September 14: WWF Chairman Vince McMahon becomes WWF World champion by defeating Triple-H in Las Vegas, Nevada. Steve Austin assisted McMahon, his former nemesis, in the victory. McMahon, at 54 years old, is the oldest man to hold the championship.

September 17: Nicole Bass files a $120-million lawsuit against the WWF in a federal court in Brooklyn. She seeks $20-million in compensation for alleged sexual harassment and $100-million in punitive damages. Bass claims a long-time WWF executive and wrestler grabbed her breast during a plane flight and warned her against reporting the incident. She also mentions being struck with an unusually rigid guitar during one in-ring scuffle, which she feels was direct intimidation by management.

September 19: Mike Awesome defeats previous champ Taz and Masato Tanaka to win the ECW World title in a three-way match at Anarchy Rulz in Rosemont, Illinois. The bout had been scheduled to be a singles match between Taz and Tanaka, but Awesome prompted Taz to make it a three-way by doing a lot of trash-talking at ringside. Awesome and Tanaka eliminated Taz with a double-cover, then Awesome used a top-rope Awesome bomb to pin Tanaka ... On the same PPV, Chris Chetti slips on Tony DeVito's shirt and injures his neck during a tag team match pitting Chetti and Nova vs. DeVito and Simon Diamond.

September 20: Vince McMahon relinquishes the WWF World championship because his title-winning effort against Triple-H violated the "End Of An Era" agreement that prevented him from appearing on WWF television.

September 24: Chris Candido and Tammy Lynn Sytch return to ECW for a TNN taping at the Compuserve Sports Arena in Plymouth, Michigan. Candido and Sytch had taken time off to work out personal problems dealing with alcohol and drug abuse. Candido's homecoming is spoiled by a loss to former partner Lance Storm.

September 25: Gary Steele defeats previous champ Naoya Ogawa and Brian Anthony for the NWA title in a three-way bout at the NWA 51st Anniversary show in Charlotte, North Carolina ... On the same card, former NWA champion Ronnie Garvin beats Stan Lane in a legends match.

September 26: Triple-H outlasts five other contenders at Unforgiven, held at the Charlotte Coliseum in North Carolina, to win his second WWF World title. He executes a pedigree on The Rock for the victory. The other participants were Mankind, Davey Boy Smith, Kane, and Paul Wight.

Jerry Lawler: Still "The King," but not the mayor

September 27: Psicosis loses his mask in a hair vs. mask bout with Billy Kidman. Juventud Guerrera and Chavo Guerrero Jr. interfere on behalf of Psicosis, but Kidman is able to use the seated power bomb and shooting star press for the win.

October 2: Naoya Ogawa regains the NWA title from Gary Steele in Thomaston, Connecticut. Tony Rumble, Steele's manager for the evening, hits his own charge in the head with a batter's helmet, allowing Ogawa to clamp Steele in the STF for the victory ... The fourth annual Eddie Gilbert Memorial Show takes place in Vineland, New Jersey. Tommy Gilbert, Eddie's father, teams with John Kronus to defeat Public Enemy in the main event. King Kong Bundy and George Steele also appear.

October 3: Television writer Vince Russo, whose provocative storylines helped Raw dominate the ratings war with WCW over the past year, resigns from the WWF to become the creative director of WCW. "I'm not doing this to destroy Vince McMahon or prove anything to Vince McMahon," Russo tells PWI. "I'm looking at this simply as a business decision." Russo warns it may take six months to a year before WCW "gets it right."

October 4: Bret Hart defeats Chris Benoit in a half-hour match at Kemper Arena in Kansas City, Missouri, in a bout was dedicated to Owen Hart. Hart family friend and Kansas City legend Harley Race is the guest ring announcer.

October 5: Jerry Lawler places third in a 15-candidate race for Memphis mayor, with 12 percent of the vote. Mayor Willie Herenton, the incumbent, wins his third term ... Darren Drosdov is left paralyzed from the waist down following a match against D-Lo Brown at the Nassau Coliseum in Uniondale, New York. Brown was attempting a running Liger bomb when Drosdov fell awkwardly on his neck. Droz underwent surgery to remove two discs causing pressure on his neck. Surgeons extracted a piece of Drosdov's pelvis to replace the discs and his neck was stabilized by inserting a plate and screws.

October 6: Robert Marella, a.k.a. Gorilla Monsoon, dies. (See page 153).

October 10: Heroes of Wrestling, a PPV featuring many WWF stars of the 1980s, emanates from Casino Magic in St. Louis, Missouri. King Kong Bundy and Jim Neidhart defeat Jake Roberts and Yokozuna in the main event. The card, which is believed to have lost money, gains notoriety because of Roberts' lewd gestures.

October 17: Chyna becomes the first female Intercontinental champion by defeating Jeff Jarrett in a "Good Housekeeping" match at No Mercy in Cleveland, Ohio. Various kitchen utensils and appliances are used as weapons ... Also at No Mercy, septuagenarian Fabulous Moolah becomes the oldest person to hold the women's title by pinning Ivory. The presence of Mae Young, Moolah's friend, distracts Ivory enough to make her lose the title ... On the same PPV, WWF World champion Triple-H beats Steve Austin in a no-disqualification bout. The Rock, who attacked by Helmsley earlier, tries to hit Triple-H with a sledgehammer, but the champ ducks, causing Austin to take the blow in the abdomen. Triple-H gains an easy pinfall ... In yet another match from the same PPV, The Hardy Boyz win $100,000 and Terri's services in a scintillating ladder match, which quickly becomes a PW! Match of the Year candidate.

October 18: WWF chairman Vince McMahon's WWFE stock has a paper value of $963.9-million following the WWF's initial public offering, which raises $170-million for the company.

October 20: Ultimo Dragon announces his retirement at a press conference in Tokyo. Ultimo's career was cut short by elbow surgery that made his right arm ineffective in the ring ... Bert Prentice and Bill Behrens sell NWA World-wide/Music City to Memphis-based Lone Ranger Lending Service. Prentice and Behrens plan on remaining with the promotion.

October 23: The Sandman (Hak) and Mikey Whipwreck return to the ECW Arena after being released from WCW. While Whipwreck is defeated easily by World champion Mike Awesome, The Sandman's reappearance—and his intimidation of The Impact Players—is more noteworthy.

October 24: Bill Goldberg dominates Halloween Havoc by grabbing the U.S. title and by defeating WCW World champ Sting at the MGM Grand Garden Arena in Las Vegas, Nevada. Goldberg gained the U.S. belt when the ex-champ, Sid Vicious, is too bloody and battered to continue. When World champion Hulk Hogan lays down for Sting, Goldberg answered the "Stinger's" challenge to be his opponent. Goldberg appears to win the World belt, but it is only a non-title bout ... Rey Misterio Jr. reinjures his ACL injury prior to a World tag team title defense at the same PPV. He and Konnan forfeit the belts. Harlem Heat win the championship in a three-way match over the First Family (Brian Knobs and Hugh Morrus) and the Filthy Animals (Konnan and Billy Kidman).

October 25: WCW official J.J. Dillon strips Sting of the World championship for using the Scorpion deathdrop on referee Charles Robinson following his non-title loss to Bill Goldberg the previous night. A 32-man world title tournament begins that evening ... Bret Hart, despite a hair-line fracture in his shin, wins the U.S. title and advances past Goldberg in the first-round of the tournament. Hart later claims he didn't know Scott Hall, Kevin Nash, and Sid Vicious attacked Goldberg during that match. "The Hitman" seemed to be nearly unconscious outside the ring as the interference took place.

October 30: Vader regains the All-Japan Triple Crown from Mitsuharu Misawa at Budokan Hall in Tokyo. The "Mastadon" survived backdrops, missile kicks, and a Tiger driver, then launched a power bomb to pin Misawa. The American contingent of wrestlers—Johnny Ace, Mike Burton (Bart Gunn), and Maunukea Mossman—congratulated Vader. Motoka Baba, wife of the late Shohei "Giant" Baba, was in attendance to celebrate All-Japan's 27th anniversary.

November 1: Steve Williams is cleared in a paternity suit brought forth by a California woman, who claimed Williams was the father of her daughter. "Dr. Death" had been indicted in 1998 for failing to pay $64,000 in back child support. DNA tests proved he was not the father.

November 2: Turner Broadcasting System, a division of Time Warner, announced that TBS Entertainment President Brad Siegel would assume responsibility for overseeing WCW operations. The move comes after Dr. Harvey Schiller leaves the company to take a position with George Steinbrenner's Yankees-Nets corporation.

November 8: Terry Taylor joins the growing list of WWF front office defectors by joining the creative team of Vince Russo, Ed Ferrara, and Bill Banks in WCW. According to friends, Taylor was frustrated because of his failure to become the federation's top creative writer and a contractual demand from Vince McMahon that would have restricted him from working in WCW for one year if he parted company with the WWF for any reason. Taylor had joined the WWF several months earlier after a parting of the ways with Eric Bischoff.

November 13: Tony Rumble dies. (See page 153).

Hart vs. Benoit: Hart wins first WCW World title

November 14: The Big Show becomes the sixth man to hold both the WWF and NWA/WCW World titles when he defeats Triple-H for the WWF World title at Survivor Series in Detroit.

November 15: A documentary on Steve Austin, the first of a week-long series of wrestler profiles on the program Biography, airs on A&E. The show also examines the lives of Owen Hart and Mick Foley and re-runs its Jesse Ventura and Andre the Giant segments.

November 21: Bret Hart wins the WCW World title at Mayhem in Toronto, beating Sting and Chris Benoit in the final two rounds of a 32-man championship tournament. Hart becomes the seventh man to hold both the NWA/WCW and WWF World titles ... Curt Hennig loses a retirement match to Buff Bagwell on the same PPV.

November 22: A federal judge rules that the October 1999 edition of Playboy magazine containing nude photos of Rena Mero infringed on the WWF's copyright of the "Sable" trademark with a cover headline that read "The Woman You Loved As Sable In The Raw." Playboy has to reprint 500,000 issues containing that headline ... NWA Georgia owner Bill Behrens confirms Music City Wrestling (where Behrens is an official) will end its two-year association with the NWA. The decision to abandon Nashville operations is a result of Music City promoter Bert Prentice's impending retirement on December 18 ... Curt Hennig double-crosses the fans again. Instead of retiring quietly as a result of his loss to Buff Bagwell the previous night, Hennig aligns himself with the Powers-That-Be.

November 27: Hiro Matsuda dies. (See page 153).

November 29: WWF Vice President Jim Ross confirms Steve Austin's career is in jeopardy when it is determined that numbness in Austin's hands, arms, and legs are caused by a bone spur touching his spinal cord.

December 2: The WWF responds to an advertiser exodus by changing Smackdown's TV-14 rating to a more family-friendly TV-PG. The Parents Television Council, headed by L. Brent Bozell III, launched a letter-writing campaign for sponsors to pull their ads from WWF programs and publications. Coca-Cola, AT&T, Mars, the Coast Guard, and the Army were among the advertisers that complied. "I just hope that both organizations, or all organizations, including ECW, for that matter, will be able to find a way to capture the public's interest without having to do things that alienate advertisers," former WCW President Eric Bischoff comments in an interview with PWI Weekly ... Dusty Rhodes, soon after parting ways with WCW, appears in ECW during an Atlanta TV taping. Steve Corino goads Rhodes, who is visiting the locker room, to enter the ring where the "King Of Old School" blames Rhodes for "ruining" the current generation. He slaps Rhodes, who retaliates with bionic elbows to Corino and his associate, Jack Victory.

December 3: Jerry Monti dies. (see page 153).

December 6: Larry Zbyszko loses his job as Thunder commentator as a result of his disqualification loss to Curt Hennig in a special match orchestrated by the Powers-That-Be. Officials cite Arn Anderson's interference to help Zbyszko gain the pin over Hennig as the reason for Zbyszko's disqualification.

December 10: Genichiro Tenryu, less than two months before his 50th birthday, uses two Northern Lights power bombs to defeat Keiji Muto for the IWGP title in Osaka, Japan. He becomes the second man to hold both the IWGP championship and the All-Japan Triple Crown.

December 12: Triple-H beats Vince McMahon in a no-holds-barred contest at Armageddon in Sunrise, Florida. Stephanie McMahon shocks the world by celebrating with Triple-H while her father lays unconscious in the ring. At one point, Helmsley tries to run over McMahon with a car, but the WWF chairman hops on a rail to escape ... Miss Kitty makes headlines at Armageddon by flashing her breasts following her women's title victory over previous champ Ivory, Jacquelyn, and B.B. in an evening gown match held in a pool.

December 17: Masato Tanaka defeats Mike Awesome for the ECW World title in Nashville, Tennessee. It is a rebound for Tanaka, who lost their last high-profile match at November to Remember.

December 19: Bret Hart beats Bill Goldberg at Starrcade in Washington, D.C. Roddy Piper, subbing for the injured referee for the match, "screwed" Goldberg out of the title by ringing the bell prematurely. It is Goldberg's third defeat ...

Kevin Sullivan reunites the Varsity Club with charges Mike Rotundo and Rick Steiner. In typical fashion, they double-cross Hacksaw Duggan in a match against The Revolution.

December 20: On Nitro, Roddy Piper admits he screwed Bill Goldberg at Starrcade because the Powers-That-Be forced him to do so. An irritated Goldberg forgives Piper as Bret Hart vacates the title and maintains his innocence ... Later, the conspiracy is revealed as Hart gains a tainted win over Goldberg, then joins Scott Hall, Kevin Nash, and Jeff Jarrett to re-form the New World Order. They spray-paint "N-W-O" on Goldberg and Piper ... Triple-H orders Matt Hardy and Edge to face Jeff Hardy and Christian. Although all four are reluctant to participate, they wrestle a brilliant match. Jeff breaks his brother's nose when he finishes off Matt with a 450 splash.

December 21: Bill Goldberg requires emergency reconstructive surgery on a tendon in his right arm following a parking lot tirade in Salisbury, Maryland. Goldberg had chased the members of the reformed New World Order out of the arena and in to the parking lot, where he shattered the glass of the NWO's limousine with his bare hands. He is forced to cancel a match against Rick Steiner, scheduled for January 4 at the Tokyo Dome. Randy Savage is chosen as a substitute.

December 23: Mike Awesome regains the ECW World title from Masato Tanaka in White Plains, New York. Tanaka is less than 100 percent for the bout, having injured his elbow in his championship victory over Awesome on December 17 and lost a tooth during a match against Wing Kanemura the following night.

December 27: Mankind loses a pink slip-on-a-pole match to The Rock. The match had been set by the McMahon-Helmsley era in order to split the WWF's most popular tandem. Although Mankind is forced into retirement, he vows revenge ... WCW official J.J. Dillon confiscates the World tag team belts from The Outsiders because a knee injury prevented Scott Hall from making a scheduled defense at Starrcade ... After declaring his retirement in a tear-filled speech earlier in the night, Scott Steiner stuns the world by joining the New World Order.

Quarter-hour breakdowns were not available for Raw, which aired on Saturday, February 13 this week.

Nitro was pre-empted by TNT's coverage of the NBA playoffs on this night.

*Because of the USA Network's live coverage of the U.S. Open, Raw aired beginning at 11 p.m. Eastern time.

STATISTICS

FOR PROFESSIONAL WRESTLERS

On the pages that follow, you'll find statistics—height, weight, hometown, year (or specific date) of pro debut, and birthday—for hundreds of professional wrestlers worldwide. This list does not purport to be 100 percent comprehensive in presenting every active wrestler, but it does strive to be 100 percent accurate with the information it does present. Many birthdays and pro debuts have been double- and triple-checked through cross-references. Even so, errors may have crept into the list, and there is information that may yet be added (such as determining the specific date of a pro debut, not just the year, or month and year). We invite anyone with additions and/or corrections to this list to send your information to: PWI ALMANAC, Box 1148, Ft. Washington, PA 19034. We will update our list for next year's edition.

PRO WRESTLING ILLUSTRATED ACHIEVEMENT AWARDS

In this section, you'll find a complete listing of all PWI Achievement Award winners. We've also provided a comprehensive listing of runners-up (which were first reported in 1976) for all awards.

Award winners were first presented annually in the pages of Pro Wrestling Illustrated effective with our March 1982 issue, and continue to appear in the March edition each year. Prior to that, awards appeared in Sports Review Wrestling (1980 awards in the March 1981 edition), Sports Review Wrestling Annual (1977-79 awards in Spring 1978, '79, and '80 editions), and Victory Sports Series Wrestling Annual and Yearbook editions (1972-76 awards in issues #4, 7, 11, 14, and 18).

TITLE HISTORIES

On the pages that follow, you'll find a comprehensive listing of champions for several of the sport's major titles, both current and defunct. The information we've gathered comes from our own computer and text files; reference sources such as several decades worth of newspaper reports and arena programs; and a superlative reference tool, Wrestling Title Histories, edited by Royal Duncan and Gary Will (for information, contact Royal Duncan, 7600 N. Galena Road, Peoria, Illinois 61615). Listings for currently active championships are updated through December 31, 1999.

FOOTNOTES:

¹Buddy Rogers won a tournament in April 1963 in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, to become the first WWF champion; he defeated Antonino Rocca in the final.

²Andre the Giant scored a controversial pinfall when Hulk Hogan lifted his shoulder at the two-count, but referee Earl Hebner (the twin brother of assigned referee Dave Hebner) continued the count. Andre's reign as champion lasted less than two minutes, as he then gave the belt to Ted DiBiase; WWF President Jack Tunney later ruled that transaction invalid, vacated the title, and ordered a tournament held for WrestleMania IV.

³This was a tournament final at WrestleMania IV.

⁴WWF President Jack Tunney was at ringside for the bout, but was knocked unconscious by the interfering Ric Flair. Undertaker's manager, Paul Bearer, also interfered by attempting to hit Hulk Hogan with his urn. Hogan ducked, and Bearer hit Undertaker instead. Hogan grabbed the urn, threw ashes in Undertaker's face, then pinned him. The following day, Tunney declared the title vacant, with a new champion to be determined at the January 19, 1992, Royal Rumble.

⁵Ric Flair won the title by winning the 30-man Royal Rumble.

⁶This was WrestleMania IX. Bret Hart had Yokozuna in the sharpshooter leglock. Mr. Fuji threw salt in Hart's eyes, enabling Yokozuna to make the pin. Hulk Hogan came to the ring, made an impromptu challenge to Yokozuna, and the two wrestled. Fuji tried throwing salt again during the match with Hogan, hit Yokozuna instead, and Hogan scored the title-winning pin in just 25 seconds. Total length of Yokozuna's reign: 2:07.

⁷After Shawn Michaels vacated the title due to a knee injury, Bret Hart outlasted Steve Austin, Big Van Vader, and The Undertaker in a four-way elimination match to win his fourth WWF championship.

⁸Upon orders from WWF head Vince McMahon, Earl Hebner declared that Bret Hart had submitted to Shawn Michaels' "sharpshooter," when, in fact, he hadn't.

Bret Hart beats Curt Hennig at SummerSlam on August 26, 1991 to win his first singles title in the WWF.

¹⁰ This was a special empty-arena, falls-count-anywhere match that was taped for broadcast during halftime of the Super Bowl on the USA Network's Halftime Heat.

¹¹ This was a three-way match also involving Triple-H.

¹² Triple-H won the vacant title by pinning The Rock in a six-man match. Vince McMahon had given it up on September 20.

¹³ This was a three-way match also involving The Rock.

FOOTNOTES:

¹Pat Patterson won a September 1979 tournament in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, to become the first Intercontinental champion.

²This was a tournament final. The Ultimate Warrior was stripped of the title by WWF President Jack Tunney shortly after his WrestleMania VI WWF World title win over Hulk Hogan.

³Razor Ramon and Rick Martel were the last two competitors left in a 20-man battle royal to determine the top contenders to the title. Shawn Michaels was stripped of the title by WWF President Jack Tunney, who read a statement prior to the battle royal claiming the action was due to Michaels having failed to meet certain contractual obligations.

⁴The title had been held up earlier in the evening as the result of a controversial match between Jeff Jarrett and Bob Holly. This rematch filled the title vacancy.

⁵Shawn Michaels was forced to forfeit the title to Dean Douglas at this In Your house pay-per-view due to an injury that occurred a week earlier.

⁶The title had been held up earlier in the evening after a controversial match between Goldust and Vega; this was a rematch.

⁷This was a tournament final; Johnson had been forced to vacate the title after suffering a kidney injury in an altercation with Faarooq.

⁸This was a tournament final to fill the vacancy created when Steve Austin was unable to defend the title due to a spinal injury.

⁹Steve Austin forfeited the title to Rocky Maivia who was awarded the belt by WWF head Vince McMahon.

¹⁰This was the final match of a tournament held to fill the vacancy created when Helmsley was stripped due to a knee injury.

¹¹After Jericho and Chyna simultaneously pinned each other in a December 28 match, Stephanie McMahon-Helmsley ruled that they were both the Intercontinental champ and that both could defend the title.

WWF WORLD TAG TEAM TITLE

(NOTE: The Worldwide Wrestling Federation was formed in 1963; the WWWF tag team title was known as the United States tag team title until 1967, when the title became vacant because Bruno Sammartino (whose tag team championship partner at the time was Spiros Arion) was unable to defend both the U.S. tag team title and the WWWF heavyweight title. From 1969 through 1971, the title was known as the WWWF International tag team title. In late-1971, the championship became known as the WWWF World tag team title.)

FOOTNOTES:

¹Antonino Rocca and Miguel Perez were the first U.S. tag team titlists.

²Buddy Rogers had left Johnny Valentine and the title; Valentine chose Chief Big Heart as his partner.

³Antonio Pugliese left the United States in June 1967; Spiros Arion chose Arnold Skaaland as his championship partner.

⁴Professor Tanaka and Mitsu Arakawa had won the belts in June 1969 in a tournament in Japan.

⁵The Mongols left the WWF in early-1971, bringing the International tag team belts with them.

⁶This is a tournament final. On November 12, 1971, "Crazy" Luke Graham & Tarzan Tyler defeated The Mongols, thus quieting any disputes that the Mongols remained uncrowned champions.

⁷In June 1975, Victor Rivera announced he was giving up his half of the title; Dominic DeNucci was allowed to choose a new partner, and chose "Irish" Pat Barrett.

⁸The Executioners were stripped of the title as the result of a match against Chief Jay Strongbow & Billy White Wolf that was televised on October 26, 1976, during which a third masked Executioner interfered.

⁹Chief Jay Strongbow & Billy White Wolf won a three-team tournament, defeating The Executioners and Tor Kamata & Nikolai Volkoff.

- ¹⁰ This was a tournament final. Shortly after Chief Jay Strongbow & Billy White Wolf won the belts, Billy White Wolf suffered an injured neck during a match against Ken Patera; he and Strongbow gave up the belts.
- ¹¹ Bob Backlund & Pedro Morales won the title in two straight falls of a best-of-three-falls bout in this Shea Stadium contest. Backlund and Morales gave the belts back to the WWF shortly after the win, since Backlund was WWF World heavyweight champion at the time. The title was declared vacant and an elimination tournament ordered.
- ¹² This was the final round of an elimination tournament.
- ¹³ This was a tournament final. The title had been declared vacant when Diesel and Shawn Michaels split up at The Survivor Series, on November 23, 1994.
- ¹⁴ Earlier in the day on September 25, WWF President Gorilla Monsoon stripped Diesel and Shawn Michaels of the title and returned the belts to Owen Hart and Yokozuna.
- ¹⁵ This was a tournament final; The Smokin' Gunns had been forced to vacate the title several months earlier when Billy suffered a neck injury.
- ¹⁶ This was a tournament final to fill the vacancy created when Shawn Michaels walked out of the WWF for a brief period.
- ¹⁷ This was a four-way match that also featured The Road Warriors and The Godwins.
- ¹⁸ Jack and Funk appeared to win the title one night earlier in a "dumpster" match in Boston, but it was later determined that they failed to lock Gunn and James in the official dumpster for the win, so the title was held up and a rematch ordered.
- ¹⁹ This was a four-team match also involving Rocky Maivia and D-Lo Brown, and Billy Gunn and Jesse James.
- ²⁰ Mankind chose to defend the title on his own when Kane refused to team with him.
- ²¹ This was a three-on-two handicap match also involving the Hardys' manager, Michael Hayes. Bradshaw and Faarooq won when Bradshaw pinned Hayes.
- ²² This was a "Dark Side Rules" match in which Viscera, The Big Show, and Midian were the actual opponents for Mankind and The Rock.
- ²³ Because he was not getting along with The Rock at the time this match was held, Mankind refused to participate and instead sat outside the ring with his back turned to the action.

²Goldust impersonated champion Hunter Hearst Helmsley for this match, but WWF Commissioner Sgt. Slaughter allowed the title change to stand.

³McMahon won the belt by pinning X-Pac in a tag team match. The stipulation on the match said that if someone pinned X-Pac, he would win the title.

⁴McMahon retired the belt shortly after beating X-Pac at WrestleMania XV, then reactivated it and awarded it to Midian several months later.

⁵Jarrett gave the title to Henry as a reward for helping him beat Brown for both the European and Intercontinental championships the previous night.

⁶This was a three-way match also involving D-Lo Brown.

NWA Heavyweight Title

(NOTE: There are several key points to remember in viewing this list of NWA champions: (1) With the help of additional sources examined for this almanac, this listing contains many modifications, additions, and corrections from previous versions of the NWA title lineage printed in Pro Wrestling Illustrated or our sister publications. (2) The NWA that most fans know of today, the National Wrestling Alliance, was actually formed in 1948; a second NWA, the National Wrestling Association, came into being in 1929. (3) At various times throughout this century, the lineage of the title has been broken, most recently prior to Chris Candido's winning of the belt; special attention should be paid to the late-'20s and early-'30s, during which time the world title splintered into several factions and lineage remains fuzzy at best. As a result we've done our best to highlight major breaks from the main line, and reconnect the lineage where appropriate.)

FOOTNOTES:

¹During the first few years of the century, George Hackenschmidt had won world championship tournaments in Italy, Germany, and England. As a result of this match, by defeating American champion Tom Jenkins in two straight falls, he became recognized as top champion in North America.

²George Hackenschmidt left the ring, refusing to return, and the referee awarded the title to Gotch, who retired in 1913; his last match was a victory over George Lurich on April 9.

³Charlie Cutler had defeated Henry Ordeman and Jesse Westgard in a tournament, and had laid claim to the world title.

⁴Earl Caddock was awarded the title by the referee when Joe Stecher refused to return to the ring after the second fall.

⁵As a result of this match, Dick Shikat became recognized as the first champion of the National Wrestling Association (NWA), a division of the National Boxing Association.

⁶Henry DeGlane won the title by disqualification.

⁷This match on Long Island, New York, was billed as a world championship match, and was designed to halt the controversy that was splitting the sport at the time. Jim Londos was subsequently stripped of his title for refusing to meet the winner of this bout. Ed "Strangler" Lewis later affirmed his claim on the title with an October 10, 1932, victory over Jack Sherry.

⁸Ed Don George had been claiming rights to the world title ever since he defeated Henry DeGlane in Boston in 1933. Danno O'Mahony, because of his victories over Jim Londos, Ed Don George, and Ed "Strangler" Lewis, became the closest thing to undisputed world champion at the time, representing a unification of sorts of the splintering of the world title that had taken place for several years.

⁹During his title reign, Ali Baba was disqualified in a match against Dave Lewin held in Newark, New Jersey. The State Athletic Commission reversed the match decision and allowed Ali Baba to keep the title. Soon thereafter, however, a rule change was made which stated that the title cannot change hands on a disqualification.

¹⁰The NWA decided to recognize Everett Marshall as champion because Steve Crusher Casey was out of the country and failed to defend the title on a regular basis.

¹¹The National Wrestling Alliance was organized in July 1948. At that particular time, Orville Brown was recognized as champion. Forced to retire due to injuries received in a November 11, 1949, auto accident, Brown relinquished his claim on the title. Lou Thesz was scheduled to meet Brown in a title match in St. Louis on November 25, 1949.

¹²Time of the match: 20:38. Ric Flair is (according to WCW officials in April 1992) the first WCW World champion; Sting, therefore, as of April 1992, is a one-time NWA and one-time WCW World champion. In September 1991, Flair signed with the WWF and the NWA title was declared vacant.

¹³This is a tournament final.

¹⁴The title was declared vacant in September 1993 when WCW withdrew from the NWA. It was renamed the WCW International title, held in the year that followed by Rick Rude, Hiroshi Hase, Rude again, Sting, then Flair again, but was finally abandoned when it was unified with the WCW World title at Clash of the Champions XXVII on June 23, 1994.

¹⁵This is a tournament final.

¹⁶This was a three-way match also involving Brian Anthony.

FOOTNOTES:

¹According to World Championship Wrestling, Ric Flair—who had been known worldwide as the NWA World champion—was acknowledged as the first WCW World champion during this reign.

²Ric Flair had been stripped of the WCW World title on July 1 after he could not come to a contractual agreement with WCW. Lex Luger and Barry Windham were determined to be the top contenders to the title.

³Randy Savage won the title in a 60-man battle royal at the World War III pay-per-view event. Hulk Hogan lost the title to The Giant on October 29 at Halloween Havoc due to a clause in the contract placed by Jimmy Hart that the belt could change hands on a disqualification; since the disqualification was due to Hart's interference, the title was declared vacant and put up for grabs in the World War III battle royal.

⁴Ric Flair won a triangle match against Sting and Lex Luger by countout earlier on the card to determine a challenger for Savage's title that night.

⁵Sting was ordered to surrender the title on January 8 because of the controversial endings of both the match in which he won the World title from Hogan (December 28) and the rematch the next night. This was a match for the vacant title.

⁶Nash simply laid down and allowed Hogan to pin him in this match.

⁷This was a four-corners match also involving Sting and Hollywood Hogan.

⁸This was a four-corners match also involving Bill Goldberg and Kevin Nash.

⁹Savage pinned Nash in a tag team match that had a stipulation that said Nash would lose the belt if someone pinned him.

¹⁰Bill Goldberg had apparently won the belt from Sting in a special challenge match on October 24, but one night later, the title was declared vacant because Sting vs. Goldberg was not a sanctioned match and because Sting attacked the referee after it was over. Hart beat Benoit in the finals of a 32-man tournament.

¹¹Due to the controversial nature of his victory over Bill Goldberg the previous night, Hart gave up the title on this night, then won it back by beating Goldberg later.

FOOTNOTES:

¹In December 1981, the Andersons were stripped of the title for being unable to defend the belts due to an October 1981 injury to Gene Anderson.

²This was a tournament final.

³This was a tournament final. The title had been declared vacant when Rick Steamboat announced his retirement on December 25, 1983.

⁴Though Ivan & Nikita Koloff won the belts, any pair of the trio of Ivan & Nikita Koloff and Krusher Khrushchev were allowed to defend the title.

⁵This was a tournament final. Mike Rotundo & Steve Williams were stripped of the title after their May 7, 1989, defense against The Road Warriors, where Dan Spivey and Kevin Sullivan interfere on their behalf by attacking guest referee Nikita Koloff.

⁶The Steiners are regarded as the last NWA World tag team champions and the first WCW World tag team champions. A tag team tournament to fill the vacancy was held July 12, 1992, at the Great American Bash. The tourney was won by Terry Gordy & Steve Williams. Co-recognition of the champions as NWA/WCW World tag team champions continued through September 1, 1993, when WCW withdrew from the NWA, and the NWA in turn withdrew recognition of the champions, at the time Arn Anderson and Paul Roma, who then became known strictly as WCW World tag team champions.

⁷This was a tournament final. Rick & Scott Steiner were stripped of the title in late-July 1991 when Scott was forced out of action with a torn left biceps muscle.

⁸Lord Steven Regal was allowed to substitute for the injured Brian Pillman.

⁹Syxx substituted for Kevin Nash, who was sidelined with a knee injury.

¹⁰Because Sting and The Giant couldn't get along and wouldn't defend the title together, the WCW Executive Committee ordered them to wrestle each other in a singles match, with the winner getting the title and the right to select the co-holder of the title; Sting won and chose Kevin Nash.

- ¹¹ Scott Steiner was allowed to defend the title on Hall's behalf (with The Giant) in a match against Rick Steiner and Buff Bagwell; Rick won the title by pinning The Giant after Bagwell walked out on him. The next night he chose Kenny Kaos to be the co-holder of the title.
- ¹² This was the final match of a double-elimination tournament for the vacant title, which had been basically ignored during the previous few months.
- ¹³ This was a three-way match also involving Chris Benoit and Dean Malenko.
- ¹⁴ Kanyon was allowed to substitute for the injured Raven.
- ¹⁵ The trio of Bam Bam Bigelow, Dallas Page, and Kanyon had been permitted to defend the title in any combination of two.
- ¹⁶ Because Misterio injured his knee and was unable to wrestle, he and Konnan were stripped of the title. This was a three-team match for the title that also involved Konnan and Billy Kidman and Brian Knobs and Hugh Morrus.
- ¹⁷ Hall and Nash were stripped of the title on December 27 because Hall was unable to wrestle due to a knee injury. A tournament to determine new champions got underway that same night.

NWA/WCW U.S. HEAVYWEIGHT TITLE

(NOTE: While this particular version of the U.S. title was evidently initiated in 1975, our most reliable lineage information stretches back only to April 19, 1980.)

FOOTNOTES:

¹Wahoo McDaniel was stripped of the title in September 1981 after being injured by Abdullah the Butcher. A tournament was ordered to fill the title vacancy.

²This match was a tournament final.

³Sgt. Slaughter was awarded the title when Wahoo McDaniel was unable to show up for a title match as the result of having sustained an injured left leg at the hands of Magnificent Muraco and Roddy Piper.

⁴Greg Valentine was awarded the title when the match was halted due to a bloody gash over Roddy Piper's left ear that rendered him unable to continue.

⁵The title was held up and vacated after this bout due to the interference of Tully Blanchard, who hit Rick Steamboat in the head with a chair.

⁶This match was a tournament final.

⁷This match was the final bout in a best-of-seven series to fill the vacancy created in May 1986 when Magnum T.A. was stripped of the title for attacking NWA President Bob Geigel.

⁸This match was a tournament final. Dusty Rhodes had been stripped of the title in April 1988 for hitting NWA President Jim Crockett with a baseball bat.

⁹This match was a tournament final. The title had been declared vacant when Lex Luger won the WCW World title on July 14, 1991.

¹⁰This match had been intended as a bout to determine the number-one contender to Rick Rude's title. When Rude was stripped of the belt in December 1992 for failing to defend it (he was injured), the bout instead became a contest to determine a new champion.

¹¹This match was to fill the title vacancy. The title had been declared vacant in May 1993 as the result of a controversial double-pin situation between Dustin Rhodes and Rick Rude.

¹²Steve Austin had been awarded the title earlier in the evening via forfeit when Steamboat, his original opponent for the night, was unable to wrestle due to a back injury.

¹³Big Van Vader is stripped of the title in early-April 1995 for multiple violent offenses.

¹⁴This was a tournament final to fill the title vacancy.

¹⁵The title was declared vacant in September after Flair suffered a shoulder injury.

¹⁶This was a tournament final to fill the title vacancy.

¹⁷Hart and Page were deemed the top two contenders when Goldberg gave up the U.S. title upon capturing the World title.

¹⁸This was a tournament final. Previous champ Scott Hall had been stripped due to an ankle injury.

¹⁹David Flair had been awarded the title several weeks earlier when his father, then-WCW President Ric Flair, stripped Steiner of the title due to injury and awarded it to David.

²⁰Goldberg won this match when the referee stopped the match due to excessive bleeding on Vicious' part.

²¹This was a four-way ladder match also involving Bill Goldberg and Sid Vicious.

²²Hall forfeited the title to Benoit due to a knee injury.

FOOTNOTES:

¹This was the final round of a tournament to determine the NWA television champion. Dick Slater's U.S. title, of course, was not on the line in this match. Also note that in a semifinal encounter vs. Assassin #2, Mark Youngblood put feet up on middle ropes to gain the pinfall.

²This was a tournament final. The title was declared vacant when Dusty Rhodes was unable to defend the belt due to an injury.

³This was a "first blood" match at Starrcade '86.

⁴The belt had been held up since July 23, 1989, when Sting pinned The Great Muta, but tapes later showed that Muta's shoulders were off the mat.

⁵This was a best-of-three-falls match.

⁶This was Clash of the Champions XX. It was also a no-DQ match with Paul E. Dangerously locked in a cage suspended above the ring. Rick Steamboat won with a flying bodypress off the top rope.

⁷This was the final round of a tournament to determine a new champion. Scott Steiner was stripped of the title when he went to the WWF in November 1992.

⁸Stevie Ray defended the title on behalf of his brother while Booker T was out with a knee injury.
⁹Scott Hall was awarded this title when Steiner was too injured to defend it at Mayhem on November 21, but soon thereafter, he threw the belt in the garbage, and WCW has since eliminated the championship.

FOOTNOTES:

¹This was the tournament final for the newly created division.

²Armstrong was stripped at Clash of the Champions XX on September 2 for not defending within a 30-day period. A tournament was scheduled for early-1993 but never took place.

³This was a tournament final.

⁴Malenko gave up the belt several weeks after he won it when Jericho protested that he never signed a contract to wrestle Malenko, who earned his title shot by winning a cruiserweight battle royal under a mask on May 17. This match was for the vacant title; Jericho won by disqualification.

5This was a four-way match also involving Blitzkrieg and Juventud Guerrera.

6Lane was stripped of the title for reasons never made clear by WCW; Psicosis, who had been scheduled to challenge for it, was then awarded the championship.

FOOTNOTES:

¹Jimmy Snuka and Wildman Bellomo won separate battle royals to advance to a match in which the winner was awarded the first ECW heavyweight title.

²Shane Douglas won the title by forfeit when Tito Santana did not appear for the match.

³Shane Douglas pinned Terry Funk in an eight-man tag team match; due to a prematch stipulation, the title changed hands. Also, on August 27, 1994, Eastern Championship Wrestling was renamed Extreme Championship Wrestling.

⁴The Sandman defeated previous champion Mikey Whipwreck and Steve Austin in a triangle match for the title.

⁵Stevie Richards substituted for Raven in a tag team match that had as a stipulation that if he got pinned, Raven would lose the belt.

⁶Shane Douglas was victorious over both Sabu and Terry Funk in this three-way elimination match.

⁷This was a three-way match also involving Masato Tanaka.

FOOTNOTES:

¹This was a tournament final.

²This was a tournament final; the title had been declared vacant earlier in 1987 when Tatsumi Fujinami and Kengo Kimura split up their team.

³IWGP officials declared the title vacant when Scott Steiner failed to appear for a scheduled title defense. Rick Steiner was allowed to choose a partner and wrestle Hiroshi Hase & The Great Muta for the vacant title.

⁴This match was held to fill the title vacancy created when Hiroshi Hase & The Great Muta stepped down from the championship shortly after Muta won the IWGP heavyweight title on May 3, 1995.

⁵The title was declared vacant a few days prior to this bout when it was determined that Masa Chono & Hiroyoshi Tenzan couldn't defend the championship on this date due to personal reasons (Chono's father passed away).

⁶This was the final match of a tournament held to fill the vacancy created when Keiji Muto and Chono gave up the title due to Muto's knee injury.

FOOTNOTES:

¹August 1960 saw the formation of the American Wrestling Association. Title recognition was given to Verne Gagne who, at the time, was generally recognized as the uncrowned champion in wrestling.

²It was later discovered that Mr. M was Dr. Bill Miller.

³Verne Gagne held the title until his retirement on May 10, 1981.

⁴Nick Bockwinkel was awarded the title due to Verne Gagne's retirement, his No. 1 ranking at the time, and his status as former champion.

⁵Nick Bockwinkel was scheduled to challenge Stan Hansen for the belt. Hansen left the arena, and it was determined by AWA President Stanley Blackburn that if he did not return by the end of the last match on the card, the title would be awarded to Bockwinkel by default. It was.

⁶The title was officially awarded to Curt Hennig on May 13, 1987, when, by a 4-2 vote, an AWA review board determined through videotape replay that there was no evidence Larry Zbyszko illegally aided Hennig.

Nick Bockwinkel defeats Otto Wanz to win his second AWA World title on October 9, 1982.

⁷This was a battle royal victory; Larry Zbyszko last eliminated Tom Zenk to win the title. Jerry Lawler had been stripped of the title by AWA President Stanley Blackburn for missing seven mandatory title defenses in AWA territories.

⁸Larry Zbyszko was stripped of the title on December 12, 1990, when he left the AWA for WCW. Shortly thereafter, the AWA folded.

FOOTNOTES:

- ¹Tiny Mills & Stan Kowalski were NWA International and NWA World tag team champions, and held the belts when the latter title was renamed the AWA World tag team title.
- ²Len Montana's leg was broken in a March 1961 bout; Hardboiled Haggerty chose Gene Kiniski as he replacement partner.
- ³Hardboiled Haggerty and Gene Kiniski had split up while champions; Haggerty chose Bob Geigel as his new partner.
- ⁴This was the final of a nine-team tournament. The title had been declared vacant earlier in the month when Otto Von Krupp was injured.
- ⁵Larry Hennig's leg had been broken some time before this match by Verne Gagne, forcing Harley Race to choose a replacement partner.
- ⁶Red Bastien chose Crusher as his new partner after Hercules Cortez was killed in an automobile accident in Minnesota on July 23, 1971.
- ⁷Pat Patterson and Ray Stevens were awarded the belts by AWA President Stanley Blackburn when Jim Brunzell injured himself in a softball game and the championship team of Brunzell and Greg Gagne were unable to defend the belts.
- ⁸Verne Gagne was vacationing in Europe at the time of the bout; Adonis and Ventura were awarded the belts by default.
- ⁹Doug Somers was allowed to substitute for Boris Zukhov, who had moved from the AWA to the WWF.
- ¹⁰This was a tournament final. The title had been declared vacant on September 18, 1989, when Ken Patera was injured by Wayne Bloom and Mike Enos.
- ¹¹D.J. Peterson & The Trooper were the last champions. The AWA folded shortly thereafter.

FOOTNOTES:

¹Dory Funk Jr. was awarded the title via forfeit when Barry Windham, injured in an auto accident, was unable to defend the title.

²This match was the last round of a title tournament. Bruiser Brody had been stripped of the title when an August 24, 1982, match between Brody and Brian Blair reached an irresponsible level of brutality.

³This was a tournament final. The title had been declared vacant when Mike Graham was injured and unable to defend the title for 30 days.

⁴This is a tournament final. Barry Windham had been stripped of the title when he left Florida to compete in Japan.

⁵This is a tournament final. The title had been declared vacant several weeks earlier when Hercules Hernandez left Florida to compete in the WWF.

⁶This match was to determine the champion after the title had been held up following a match in which Ron Bass used chloroform against Barry Windham.

⁷Mike Rotundo gave the title belt to Rick Steiner in December 1988. He was subsequently stripped of the title, and the championship was abandoned later that month.

FOOTNOTES:

¹This is a tournament final.

²Paul Orndorff relinquished the championship belt on television in Atlanta on July 31, 1982. He claimed defending the belt took too much time away from preparations for NWA World title matches with Ric Flair.

³This was the final round of a round-robin tournament.

⁴Killer Brooks defeated Paul Orndorff in the scheduled title match. Larry Zbyszko bought the title from Brooks for $25,000. Zbyszko was subsequently stripped of the title, on April 30, 1983. A tournament was ordered to determine the new champion.

⁵This is the final round of a title tournament; see note 4, above.

⁶Brad Armstrong masqueraded as Mr. R and was unmasked by Ted DiBiase, who thought it would be Tommy Rich under the mask. While Rich waved at DiBiase from Gordon Solie's broadcast podium, a shocked DiBiase became the victim of Armstrong's pin.

⁷Wahoo McDaniel was defeated by Nikita Koloff in a match to unify the National and U.S. titles, on September 28, 1986 in Atlanta. See U.S. title chart (page 76) for more information.

FOOTNOTES:

¹This was the final of a tournament that had begun on March 18, 1972.

²This match was to fill the title vacancy created on December 6, 1972, when a match between champion Harley Race and challenger Johnny Valentine ended in double-disqualification.

³This was a tournament final. The title had been vacated following Harley Race's defeat of Ric Flair for the NWA World title.

⁴This title was abandoned roughly six months after Harley Race's victory.

FOOTNOTES:

¹Title held up the next day because Wahoo McDaniel had interfered in the match. Von Erich won rematch on October 21, 1969, in Dallas.

²This was a tournament final to fill the vacant title.

³This was an awarded title.

⁴This was an awarded title.

⁵Title held up December 20, 1980, after a match against Kevin Von Erich.

⁶Kerry Von Erich substituted for Kevin in match for held-up title.

⁷Fritz Von Erich retires after match.

⁸This was an awarded title.

⁹Title held up after match against Jimmy Garvin on July 11, 1983.

¹⁰World Class seceded from the NWA and claimed this was a "world title" match.

¹¹Awarded title by forfeit when Von Erich no-shows.

¹²Fujinami wins title by countout in accordance with World Class rules, but voluntarily returns the belt.

¹³Title unifies with USWA heavyweight; lineage resumes in that section.

FOOTNOTES:

¹This was the main event of the SuperClash II pay-per-view. The match was stopped due to Kerry Von Erich bleeding too heavily. Jerry Lawler, who held the AWA World title at the time, unified that title with Von Erich's World Class heavyweight title; the unified championship became known as the USWA heavyweight title.

²This was the final bout in a 21-man tournament. The Snowman had been stripped of the title on August 27 after he was injured and could not defend the belt within the required 30-day period.

³This was a Survivor Series final, an eight-man match that saw Jerry Lawler pin Tatanka in a bout pitting Lawler, Jeff Jarrett, & The Moondogs against Tatanka, Tommy Rich, & The Dog Catchers.

⁴This was a battle royal to fill the title vacancy created when Randy Savage left the USWA just a few days earlier.

⁵Jerry Lawler forfeited the title because he was injured by Sid Vicious earlier on the card and could not appear for the scheduled match.

⁶This was a tournament final; Jarrett had to vacate the title because of a back injury.

⁷The Memphis-based promotion, in the midst of legal entanglements, ceased running cards in the fall of 1997.

MULTI-FEDERATION CHAMPIONS

The following is a list of the men who have won titles in more than one of the Big Four, the Big Four being the only four promotions to have ever received world title status from PWI and its sister publications: the NWA/WCW, the WWF, ECW, and the AWA.

OTHER CROWDS AND CARDS OF NOTE

Once again, the Tokyo Dome was the site for 1999's largest crowds, as 65,000 fans piled in to see Vader defeat Mitsuharu Misawa for the first of his two All-Japan Triple Crowns of the year on May 2. On April 10, less than one month earlier, 63,000 New Japan fans assembled at the Dome to watch heavyweight champ Keiji Muto defend his title against Don Frye, barely topping the crowd of 62,500 who paid a total of $5.3-million to see Muto win the belt from Scott Norton on January 4.

On January 4, 1996, the second match between Muto and the UWFI's Nobuhiko Takada drew 64,000 fans and an estimated $5.5-million gate. Takada defeated Muto with a cross armbreaker in the main event. On February 10, 1990, 63,900 people paid a total of $3.2-million to see Antonio Inoki and Seiji Sakaguchi come out of retirement to defeat Shinya Hashimoto and Masa Chono. On January 4, 1993, 63,500 paid approximately $3.5-million as Genichiro Tenryu defeated Riki Choshu. Two years later, on January 4, 1995, 62,500 paid approximately $4.8-million when IWGP heavyweight champion Hashimoto defeated Kensuke Sasaki. That attendance mark was equaled on January 4, 1997, when Hashimoto defeated Choshu. About four months later, on April 12, 60,500 fans came to the Dome to see Naoya Ogawa, making his pro debut, defeat Hashimoto with a sleeperhold. On April 2, 1995, 13 promotions in Japan got together for a cooperative card that drew about 60,000 fans. Comparable crowds were on hand in the Dome on May 1, 1998 (main event: Toshiaki Kawada pinned Mitsuharu Misawa), January 4, 1994 (main event: Genichiro Tenryu pinned Antonio Inoki), January 4, 1992 (main event: Riki Choshu pinned Tatsumi Fujinami), November 29, 1989 (main event: Akira Maeda defeated former Olympic judo medalist Willie Wilhelm via submission), and April 24, 1989 (1972 Olympic judo medalist Shota Chochoshvili defeated Antonio Inoki in the fifth round of a scheduled 10-round bout).

In the United States, some significant attendance figures include the following: 62,167 at the Hoosier Dome in Indianapolis, Indiana, on April 5, 1992, for WrestleMania VIII ... 60,525 at the Alamogordo Dome in San Antonio on January 19, 1997, for the WWF's Royal Rumble (main event: Shawn Michaels beat "Psycho" Sid Vicious) ... 43,517 at Texas Stadium in Irving, Texas, on May 6, 1984, to see Kerry Von Erich capture the NWA World title from Ric Flair ... approximately 42,000 at Shea Stadium in New York on June 25, 1976, to see Bruno Sammartino defeat Stan Hansen, Andre the Giant defeat boxer Chuck Wepner, and the closed-circuit broadcast from Japan of Muhammad Ali vs. Antonio Inoki ... 40,671 at Shea Stadium in New York on August 9, 1980, to see Bruno Sammartino defeat Larry Zbyszko in a cage match, and Andre the Giant pin Hulk Hogan. More recently, WCW Monday Nitro drew 38,809 to the Georgia Dome in Atlanta on January 4, 1999, and the WWF drew 35,732 for Raw on October 11—their first show ever in WCW's hometown.

Prior to what many term "the modern era" of pro wrestling, a card at Chicago's Comiskey Park drew 38,622 fans to see Buddy Rogers defeat Pat O'Connor for the NWA World title; the live gate of $141,345 was a record at the time. And on September 20, 1934, 35,265 fans flocked to Wrigley Field in Chicago to see NWA World champion Jim Londos defend his title against Ed "Strangler" Lewis.

WRESTLING SUPERCARDS

In a sport that has no beginning and ending points within a calendar year, the supercard has often served as the culmination of a year's worth of activity, the one card on which lasting feuds are brought to a conclusion. Just what constitutes a supercard is a matter of interpretation. The size of the venue, the use of wrestlers who normally do not compete in the geographic area in which the card is held, the number of high-level championship matches—these are all considerations. The mere fact that a promoter touts his card as a supercard (e.g. any David Von Erich Parade of Champions after number three) does not necessarily make it so. One thing that is definitely so: The concept of the supercard did not begin with the advent of pay-per-view.
